

Francesco Francioni (Doctor of Laws, Florence, and LLM, Harvard) is Professor Emeritus of international law at the European University Institute, Florence and Professor of international Cultural Heritage law at LUISS University, Rome. He is a member of the Institut de droit international, a member of the editorial board of the Italian YBK of International Law, as well as the co-founder and General Editor with A. Vrdoljak of the Oxford University Press Series "Cultural Heritage Law and Policy". He has been a member of the Italian delegation in numerous international negotiations and diplomatic conferences for the adoption of treaties in the field of environmental protection and cultural heritage, and has served as President of the UNESCO World Heritage Committee 1997-1998. He has been Judge ad hoc in the UN Tribunal of the Law of the Sea and arbitrator at the Permanent Court of Arbitration (The Hague). He has published extensively in the field of public international law, in English, Italian and French languages. He has been visiting professor at Oxford University (1998-2003), Columbia Law School (Winter term 2013), Cornell Law School (1984, 1985, 1986), and Texas Law School from 1987 to 2008. In 2018 he gave the General Course in international law at the Chinese (Xiamen) Academy of International Law on the topic "The Cultural Dimension of International Law". His recent publications include: The Oxford Handbook of International Cultural Heritage Law, Oxford University Press, 2020; Enforcing Cultural Heritage Law, Oxford University Press, 2013; "Cultural Heritage and Human Rights", Max Planck Yearbook of United Nations Law, 2022 (forthcoming).